Visitors to the exhibit at the University of California, Santa Barbara, will experience a unique perspective on the history of human rights. The exhibit, titled "The Struggle for Human Rights," opens on March 1, 2003.

By Carolee Atienza

DISTINGUISHED VISITING LECTURER:

Paul Gilroy

Paul Gilroy is a renowned scholar and writer who has made significant contributions to the fields of cultural studies and postcolonial theory. His work has explored the complexities of identity, race, and nationality in contemporary society. Gilroy's lecture will focus on the intersection of culture, politics, and globalization, and will offer insights into the challenges faced by marginalized communities in the modern world.

By Raphael Delaite

SEXUAL ABORTION VICTIMS VIOLENT OR CHANCE?

In Review: Spring 2003

By Selma Bendiab

DISTINGUISHED VISITING LECTURER:

Selma Bendiab