NRI Suman Ghosh to begin Dwando

Trans World Features | Wednesday, 07 January , 2009, 13:49

Suman Ghosh is an academic settled in Miami, USA. But with his first film Podokhhep winning two National Awards including one for Best Actor bagged by Soumitra Chatterjee, he is ready to start his second film, Dwando. Based on his own story, it has Soumitra Chatterjee playing a neuro-surgeon who meets all kinds of people through his profession. For the female lead, Ghosh has picked television actress Ananya Chatterjee who has just made her debut in Rituparno Ghosh's Abohomaan. Ananya plays Sudeepta, married to Anik (Koushik Sen) but is in love with Rana (not cast yet) and it deals with her dilemma.

"I didn't have the time to go scouting for talent for these roles. Then Prosenjit suggested I look at local talent and someone told me that Ananya has done great work in Abohomaan. I found her work mind-blowing from some of the samples she sent me," explains Ghosh.

The film will begin shooting in February. Ghosh aims at a July release. He confesses that since he was inexperienced when he made Podokhhep, he had not given marketing and publicity any thought and so the film vanished from the prestigious Nandan theatre without many people even hearing about it. This time, he promises to be wiser.
